VACCINES

VITAL FOR GLOBAL HEALTH

DEVELOP
Health agencies worldwide create vaccines to prevent Ebola, influenza and other infectious diseases.

DISTRIBUTE
Some health workers travel to remote areas to reach more people, saving lives.

PREVENT
Vaccines stop the spread of—and can even eradicate—many communicable diseases.

This polio vaccination team in India contributed to a campaign that reported a 94 percent drop in infection rates.